

Would you, as school leaders and teachers, like validation of your Brightpath assessment process?

Brightpath is offering an efficient Double-Marking service for teachers/schools that have already attempted an assessment round. The aim of our marking process is mainly to assist school teaching staff in their professional development and to provide a degree of moderation.

How does the service work?

1. Teachers assess (score) their students in the Brightpath Software.
2. Our highly experienced Brightpath markers take a sample of students from the project(s) you identify. The sample is drawn either from atypical instances, or randomly.
3. The markers independently assess their selected sample.
4. The markers provide brief comment when their score differs by more than 20 points from your teacher's score.
5. Your school receives a summary showing
 - the assessments that were double-marked and
 - brief commentary where there were significant differences between the scores.
